BOOK OF Remembrance

TEMPLE BETH-EL
OF GREAT NECK
Elie Wiesel writes,

“The call of memory, the call to memory, reaches us from the very dawn of history. No commandment figures so frequently, so insistently, in the Bible. It is incumbent upon us to remember…”

This is a Book of Remembrance.

Each of the names printed here represents an entire world, a world unique unto itself. We attempt now to touch that world, a world of dreams realized and of dreams as yet unfulfilled, a world of shadows and of light. We hold these names close, and in so doing, we feel the presence of those who touched our lives so deeply.

Life often pushes us to rush ahead, to focus on the tasks still ahead, on the future alone, but now, at this Yizkor service, we take time to look back. We take time simply to be with those whom we loved so deeply, those who changed us forever. We create a space for memory.

We now come into awareness of the comforting presence of the community which surrounds us in this beloved sanctuary. We also take time to be alone with ourselves, alone with our thoughts of those who are now gone from this earth. What memories rush back with particular poignancy? What laughter? What tears? Can we learn from the regrets which the past may hold? Can we ask forgiveness from those who are no more? Can we forgive ourselves for what we did or what we failed to do? Each life contains a spark of the Divine. What precious teachings, what truth did the life of our loved ones hold?

The verb lizkor, “to remember” is used no less than 169 times in the Hebrew Bible. The great historian Yosef Yerushalmi writes that “Only in Israel and nowhere else is the injunction to remember felt as a religious imperative to an entire people.” It has been said that when the Jew says, “I believe,” what he or she truly means is, “I remember.” Through memory, we attempt to touch the reality of what once was and to transform it into a vision of what shall be.

Even as we face our losses, may we embrace this New Year 5777 and each new day with gratitude for those with whom we have shared life’s path. May their memories inspire us to live more fully, more joyfully, and may their souls be bound up in the bonds of life and love everlasting.
